"If our people were isolated from all others and if the question of our currency could be treated without regard to our relations to other countries, its character would be a matter of comparatively little importance. If the American people were only concerned in the maintenance of their physical life among themselves they might return to the old days of barter, and in this primitive manner acquire from each other the materials to supply the wants of their existence. But if American civilization were satisfied with this, it would abjectly fail in its high and noble

In an unhealthy stimulation of prices an increased cost of all the needs of his home must long be his portion, while he is at the same time vexed with vanishing visions of increased wages and easier lot. The pages of history and experience are full of this lesson. "An insidious attempt is made to create a prejudice against the advo-

In a most amusing and handsomely illustrated article, "An American's Mistakes in Paris," published in Demorest's Magazine for April, the trials and blunders of an American are told in a bighly entertaining style. Another illustrated paper on travel, "Nileistic Experience." is equally entertaining and unique, and introduces one to many amoving characteristics of modern Egyptians and their donkeys. "In the Land of Lilliput" is profusely illustrated with portraits of midgets who have been prominent in public since the time of Tom Thumb, and the accompanying narrative is especially interesting. Seven of New York's most prominent clergyman tell how their denominations celebrate Easter, and their reasons for doing so, and there are several poems appropriate for the senson. The story matter is very attractive, and every department is filled with bright and helpful suggestions. Published by W. Jennings Demorest, at 15 East 14th Street, New York, for only $3 a year.
